

The 500-seater Cantonese restaurant features time-honoured recipes that have been passed down many generations. Through the use of fresh and premium ingredients, traditional flavours are refined and presented in a most modern fashion. Helmed by experienced chefs, Pin Si Restaurant aims to create a classic Cantonese dining experience for all our guests, delivering in both taste and quality.

Yum Cha, which translates to 'drinking tea' in Cantonese, is an important family tradition that has been in existence for centuries. In traditional tea houses, families engage in the activity by bonding over a meal, which usually consists of bamboo steamer baskets filled with dimsum. From translucent prawn dumplings and creamy salted egg yolk lava buns, to delicately steamed siew mai and fried spring rolls, Pin Si brings together some of the most iconic Cantonese flavours, allowing for friends and family alike to enjoy these delicacies in the comfort of the restaurants' palatial interiors.

With particular emphasis on local favourites, Pin Si Restaurant serves up some of the most exquisite and hearty Cantonese dishes. Guests can savour the taste of the ever-popular Cantonese roasted pork belly, home-styled seafood delights, as well as fresh vegetables prepared with 'wokhei' fragrance - an elusive and addictive quality unique to Cantonese cuisine.

Not to be outdone is the wide variety of nourishing herbal soups also available at the restaurant, all of which are cooked over 'slow-fire' for hours to complete a satisfying and wholesome meal. At Pin Si, guests are able to reminisce over the taste of the good old times, enjoying a nostalgic fare with their loved ones while nestling in the comforts of our elegantly decorated restaurant interior.

We also provide multi-course sit-down dinner menus customised for your special occasions. Our private rooms are ideal for corporate events as well as family functions.

The newly renovated space can accommodate over 500 guests, making it an ideal location for celebrating weddings, baby showers, birthday parties and other memorable moments in your life. Our friendly and professional consultants are always here to help, seeking to collaborate with you in creating wonderful memories that will last a lifetime.
